KINDERGARTEN AREA. This is the kindergarten area of the new Bancroft school. It is located in the front of the building where play areas and walks through the tree studded landscape are available. Covered with plastic in the front is a cement table and chairs which the youngsters will be using. Other pictures of the school appear in this issue of the TOWNSMAN.

The Early Birds Plan In The Afternoon

(A TOWNSMAN News feature)

How about the morning half of the South School double sessions? Walter Perkins' South School faculty are the early birds, in their classroom before 8 a.m. They teach until 12:15, then after lunch go into their planning session. The desks and chairs there are still warm from the Bancroft teachers, who have their planning session in the morning.

While Bancroft takes over the classrooms for the afternoon session, South School teachers settle down in the once-and-future cafeteria against a colorful backdrop of textbooks and teaching materials, which are stacked high against the walls and stored up on the state. It's a lively scene.

How does South School find double sessions? There are logistical problems and inconveniences, of course, such as lugging all materials back and forth from cafeteria to classroom each day, and the necessity for two teachers sharing a classroom to agree on classroom displays, etc. A few teachers said they felt pushed to get everything into the shorter classroom time, and of course art, music and phys-ed have had minimal attention this fall.

But almost all the teachers asked felt that the smaller classes, plus the advantage of the planning sessions, override these shortcomings, which are short term. "It couldn't possibly be working better," a teacher stated flatly. "The kids aren't suffering a bit. We have them in the morning when they are fresh and we are too. And in the afternoon session, we get the chance to evaluate the methods we've used in the morning, while

We're Heavier

We may appear this week to be a little heavier than usual, almost like one feels right after Thanksgiving dinner, but there is justifiable cause.

This week's edition of the TOWNSMAN, is 36 pages packed full of news and advertising for the enjoyment of our readers. It is the largest edition of the year, and one of the largest of all time.

Guarded Optimism On New School

The new Bancroft school is crammed with workmen these days working feverishly against a time schedule which would insure opening of the school on Jan. 6, following the Christmas recess.

This would relieve double sessions now going on at the South school, which is housing the Bancroft population in afternoon sessions.

Most officials are optimistic as well as the contractor.

Head of the Leominster Engineering Co., the firm building the modern school which will institute the ungraded system here, feels confident he can have the building ready for occupancy when the children are scheduled to return to classes after Christmas.

Albert Guerin, clerk of the works, said Monday, the schedule "will be tight, but it seems possible."

Robert G. Lloyd, chairman of the building committee remains hesitantly optimistic, as he daily examines the progress of the work crews.

There are a great number of workmen on the scene within the past few weeks and progress appears to be moving toward the target date.

Town Manager Richard J. Bowen remains optimistic. He said Tuesday that he felt the "work can be done and the school ready. I feel that we will be in there Jan. 6."

Bowen pointed out that the school had been selected for showing to the American Association of School Administrators in Atlantic City in February.

The basic decision on whether the building will be ready, will probably come on Friday, Dec. 13.

The school committee, selectmen and finance committee are scheduled to examine the building

Building Needs Consultants To Assist School Board

The school committee is now committed to the services of two consultants on their building needs - West School addition architect Frank Crimp, hired as a consultant to make a feasibility study and schematic drawings for upgrading-expansion of Central, Sanborn and South elementary schools, and the New England School Development Council (NESDEC), which will be asked to draw up educational specifications for the high school addition, and the upgrading-expansion of the West Junior High School.

The high school addition will bring its capacity to 2000 pupils, while the West Junior High upgrading and expansion will bring this school to "a feasible number," with 1000 set as the top limit.

Crimp, playing the role of consultant, not architect here, and NESDEC representative John H. Sullivan Jr., who also is preparing the NESDEC administrative salary survey for the school committee, were present for the building needs discussions at the Tuesday night school committee meeting.

The committee wants reports from both men in early January, in time to insert articles for planning funds in the warrant for projects decided on. Relief of overcrowded Central School has top priority in the schoolmen's planning.

If it is feasible to expand and upgrade Central, the schoolmen look for actual work to begin as soon as the West School addition opens and provides a slight breather on space.

Committeeman William King described the upgrading-expansion of the three elementary schools as a policy of buying space and time while improving these schools to make them adequate for the continuous progress (nongraded) program which the school committee has voted.

Crimp did not encourage the schoolmen in their hope that a single basic design could be drawn up to serve, with variations, all three schools. He said some similarity might be possible with Sanborn and South, but not with

Circle Will Hold France Trip Monthly Meeting Available To Students

The Women's Evening Circle of West Parish Church will hold their Christmas meeting on Thursday, Dec. 12 at 7:45 p.m. in fellowship hall.

Speaker for the evening will be Pete Mercer, who worked at West Parish with the young people last year and is now a chaplain at Gov. Dummer academy. An old-fashioned carol sing will be led by Eda Warwick.

For the gift exchange this year bring something you have made, such as a painting, sewing or baking. Everyone attending will also be asked to donate one dollar for a needy local family.

Hostesses will be Barbara Haefling and Connie Gilmore, co-chairmen; Gail Juengel, Margaret Bascom, Henrietta Hess, Susan Kerwin, Joyce Harrison, Shirley Rogers and Helen Robinson.

Six weeks of study and travel in France is no longer an impossible dream. Several well rounded programs for students of French, between the age of 15 and 19 are offered. Groups of no more than 15 students per chaperon will spend four weeks of study at a French or Swiss University (a wide choice of campuses is available) and ten days of sightseeing to such places as Rome, Geneva, Chamonix, Mont Blanc, Provence, Chateaux de la Loire etc.

Groups are being formed now and reservations for the most desirable universities should be made as soon as possible.

Cost of the program is between $775 and 800.

Some Andover French teachers are willing to serve as chaperones and interested students or parents may contact Mrs. Coates at the East Junior High School or Mr. Prince at the High School, for further information.

sidered something of a national "hero."

It all depends, of course, on whom you talk to.

Who is this German Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde?

He is a 55 year old publisher-editor by the name of Axel Springer and the name is just about a household word in Germany. It is mentioned with great contempt and disdain in many circles and with awe and respect in others. But he is known, it is said, by 98% of the German people through one or more of his newspapers. Perhaps Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger is the only other person in Germany who may make that claim.

THE LARGEST NEWSPAPER IN EUROPE is published in the above 19 story modern building inches on the west side of the Berlin "Wall." The "Bild Zeitung" (Picture newspaper), published by the controversial Axel Springer, circulates more than 4,000,000 copies a day. The largest U.S. newspaper is only half the size.

In student circles the name of Springer easily starts a heated and spirited discussion that can develop into a street demonstration or a riot without much trouble. It has happened several times. And the windows of the building in Berlin bearing the name of "Axel Springer Verlag" (Publishing House) have been broken by student wrath. Since the building is very modern it contains many very large glass panes. I watched workmen struggle one day as they maneuvered large replacements into position after a student "episode" of disapproval.

But students are not the only ones who disapprove of Herr Springer and his newspapers and the size of his "house", as his publishing company is called.

DAY

Teachers, businessmen, government officials, many "white collar" workers, and others speak critically of Springer.

But on the other hand, Herr Springer has been characterized as the "Idol" of thousands, if not millions, of "blue collar" workers. The demarcation line is actually not that simple. I listened to a number of "white collar" workers, too, many university educated, who defend the controversial publisher.

One thing is sure. He must be doing something "right", as the saying goes, when he can interest more than 4,000,000 people a day with just one of his newspapers - "Die Bild Zeitung" (The Picture Newspaper). It is circulated throughout the country.

However, it is "Die Bild Zeitung", despite its huge circulation success, that causes most of the controversy.

"Bild" is decidedly a sensationalist newspaper. It follows the traditional "formula" of what Americans call the "penny press". It uses "screaming" headlines, sex, violence, mayhem, human interest stories filled with excitement, pathos, and imagination, and many large photos to go with the assortment. Add to this, splashes of red underlinings and headlines on the front and back pages and you get some idea of what "Bild" is like.

On the other hand, "Bild" does contain serious news of national and international consequence. Some say that it is oversimplified and therefore distorted. This may be true. But, oversimplified or not, every issue has some news that may be considered of consequence. This means, of course, that the 4,000,000 people are being informed, to some degree at least, of the important happenings around them or in the world. The question may well be asked: "Where would these readers go?" or "What would they read if 'Bild' didn't exist?" They probably wouldn't read any newspaper.

The most controversial publisher in Germany publishes more than just the sensational "Bild." He also publishes the respected "Die Welt" (The World), which has a circulation of nearly 250,000 a day across the country, "Berliner Morgenpost" with another 250,000 a day, and not especially sensationalist, four other newspapers (seven in all), plus a number of respected and some sensationalist magazines, plus books of various types.

Some statisticians will tell you that his daily newspaper circulation amounts to about 30% of the entire daily newspaper circulation in the country, and his Sunday (actually Saturday, the equivalent to the U. S. Sunday editions) circulation is some 80% of the nation's total for that edition.

Then, if you add the magazines - all of which are non political - most of which have very "healthy" circulations, it is plain that Herr Springer does "reach" many, many millions of people in Germany, certainly many more than any other publisher.

Now, if you add a few ingredients together - size, sensationalism, and a national sensitivity to bigness or possible power - you can begin to understand why so many Germans are critical and super-sensitive to Axel Springer. Size alone today in Germany will do it.

However, circulation size is not the only dimension indicating the scope of the Springer enterprise. More than 13,000 people are employed by the concern which does a gross business of more than $200 million a year. It is said that the company earns in the neighborhood of $15 million per year. The concern also has two buildings of nearly equal size, one a $20 million, 19 story modern plant in Berlin overlooking the "Berlin Wall" and the other, located in Hamburg, the nation's second largest city. Size alone in Germany today is enough to frighten many segments of the population.

Sisterhood To Conduct Luncheon

The Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel will hold a luncheon meeting on Dec. 10, at 12:30 at the Temple.

Luncheon will be served by Mrs. Arnold Weiner, Mrs. Ted Samel, and Mrs. Sidney Soreff. A regular business meeting will be conducted by Sisterhood President, Mrs. Robert Milstone.

Thomas Leavitt, director of the Merrimack Valley Textile Museum will present a program depicting the earlier days of Lawrence, Andover and North Andover.

Reservations can be made at the Temple Office.

Christmas Topic For Women's Club

Christmas creations will be the special feature when the Andover Christian Women's Club holds their monthly luncheon at the Indian Ridge Country Club on Tuesday, Dec. 10, from 12 to 2.

The speaker will be Mrs. Robert Batchelder, former assistant dean of women at Lewis and Clark College, Portland, Oregon. Mrs. Batchelder, wife of a Boston University Professor, has also been chairman of the Boston Christian Women's Club. Another former Boston chairman, Mrs. Clifford Nelson, will bring special music of the Christmas season. All women of the community are invited to attend this luncheon. For reservations or further information contact Mrs. Roland Dewhurst, 43 County Road, or Mrs. Richard Harvey, 50 Timberneck Drive, Reading. Nursery service is available.

EARLY BIRDS

they're fresh in our minds and while we're together; if something hasn't gone over with the kids, we can find out what another teacher did, that worked better."

"And we have the chance to discuss the kids," pointed out Thomas McKenna, South School guidance counselor.

"I know my children better than I ever have before," a primary teacher declared. "If you're going to use a non-graded approach, with the kids moving about so they're at their best level in each subject, you have to know the children. To have individualized instruction, you have to know the individual child and know him well."

Such teacher talk underscores a point which Walter Perkins made to the TOWNSMAN: that the administration and faculty of his school are using the planning sessions to hammer out the non-graded philosophy they are beginning to move into. South School has faculty meetings every Wednesday now for long-range planning, as well as for the nuts and bolts of daily problems.

"They are making the best possible use of the planning sessions," said Perkins, "studying together how children behave, how they learn, and how they learn best. The planning sessions give us a chance to move ahead on a sound basis, as we are ready, according to plan. "I've never had a chance to be planning with a faculty this way. You know, what attracts good teachers to a town is not just good salaries, and Andover is in a good competitive position there, - but exciting programs, and an administration that cares, and will really involve teachers in planning."

"We have a good cross-section of faculty, some young, some with long experience in Andover schools. It keeps us in balance."

Non-gradedness, according to Perkins, is not a matter of just organization, but philosophy. There's no "one way" to do it. However a mimeographed "progress report" on the faculty deliberations contrasts the non-graded, or continuous progress system with the traditional isolated classroom approach, as follows:

The "graded" school groups all children by chronological age, clearly designating a certain body of work to be completed by all the students in the grade by the end of the year. Students who do not meet these requirements satisfactorily stay back to repeat the entire year.

The report characterizes the non-graded approach as flexibly organized, with children grouped differently during the day for different subjects or skills, so that they are in each case in a learning situation with children advancing at a comparable pace. When a new year begins, the slower learner picks up each subject where he left off at the end of the previous year.

"One thing is sure," said Perkins. "When students are in a smaller group session and one that is flexible, with a teacher who is knowledgeable about how kids learn, this provides better education than having 25-30 children in an isolated grade situation."

Perkins also said that non-gradedness needs an entirely different and flexible kind of organization, with perhaps three different classifications of people responsible for the children - classroom teachers, master teachers and teachers' aides, with children sometimes learning in large group situations and sometimes in very small ones. He said this would be one way to relieve teachers, in a full-day session, for the kind of planning that both Bancroft and South teachers are finding valuable by-product of double sessions.

Flexible facilities make flexible organization possible, said Perkins, and he predicted that educators from hundreds of miles would be coming to Andover to look at the Bancroft school.

"It's terrific. I've never seen a building so conducive to children learning. It's exciting to kids, and it makes sense to them. It's functional, and extremely attractive to adults."

It's a great credit to Andover, to the School Committee and the building committee, and to the town manager. Most town managers are so conservative they'd hate to try anything like this."

Perkins also predicted that parents from other Andover elementary school districts, including South, will want their schools adapted to be flexible enough for continuous progress programs.

Many South School parents were taken aback at the idea of double sessions last spring, but not a teacher in the planning session the TOWNSMAN visited last week had received a complaint.

There certainly are inconveniences to some working South School mothers, as there are in the Bancroft session, but they have done their best to resolve them "for the duration."

A mother who does not work outside her home shrugged off the special session hours, and said her two children were getting plenty of work and seemed to be very profitably busy, very happy.

"There's no question that the marvelous weather we had this fall was a help," she said. "If we'd had two solid months of icky rainy weather, I might not be so enthusiastic."

Another mother, comparatively new to Andover, is delighted to have her first and second-grader home for the afternoon. "This is the last year I'll have them in the afternoon," she said, and I know they're learning at school. I've been enthusiastic about it from

Bookstore Visit By Children

Children need to be confronted with an abundance of books - books in various lengths, sizes, and shapes; books with various moods, from the light and humorous to the serious; books that are fanciful and books that are realistic; books of prose and of poetry.

Today there are so many good books for children that one need not rely on a narrow range of "old favorites." To be sure, one will use the tried and true, but a teacher sensitive to children's experiences will want to see that her pupils get an opportunity to sample and explore many types of books. This approach can lead a young reader to a diversified course of lifetime reading.

Vicarious experiences are vital in building and expanding backgrounds for young people's growth in the area of reading. However, direct experiences provide a strong factor in the learning process.

Instructional techniques must be as varied as classroom materials because all children are not motivated in the same way and so Tuesday, the members of the fourth grade at Shawsheen School visited the Andover Bookstore and were charmed by their experience. The children browsed among the bookshelves and discovered some old favorite story books and were introduced to new delights in literature.

After a period of investigating, the group gathered around the fireplace for an informal discussion and a story. This was a happy introduction to one of the many valuable community resources available to the children of Andover.

Bowen advised the selectmen that the budget contained department requests and that no examination had been made of the figures.

In addition, he said, revenue had not been taken into consideration. In this regard, he said the state reimbursements to date have been below estimates, with the last quarter of the year still to come.

The school department estimate showed an almost $1,000,000 increase, he said, but this too, was purely an estimate with more scrutiny due in the coming weeks.

the beginning. I have some neighbors who are teachers at Bancroft and South, and I know they are working harder than usual, to get everything in, but the kids are doing fine."

A group of South School teachers discussing the subject came up with all sorts of ideas on how to completely reorganize a full school day to preserve the benefits of planning sessions together.

A curious citizen visiting the planning sessions of both Bancroft and South gets the impressions that these teachers, who were shaken out of the conventional school day to teach in double sessions, hope that the new insights and ideas they have gained from it will not be lost when double sessions end.

The conventional arrangement of the classroom day is not likely to be a "sacred cow" to them; small classes and a chance for planning with their colleagues seems to rank higher in educational importance.

The South-Bancroft double sessions may have a lasting impact on elementary education in Andover.

The South School PTA will meet at the school on Wednesday, Dec. 11 at 8 p.m. The program will be "South School: Where it stands now and where it is going."

Finds Switzerland Exciting, Enjoyable Place To Study

Deirdre Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent J. Robinson, a 1968 graduate of Andover High School is currently enjoying a rare opportunity as she experiences another culture through living with a Swiss family and attending one of their schools for a year.

Deirdre was chosen in the fall of 1967 as an Andover semi-finalist by the Andover Chapter of the American Field Service. The New York headquarters of the AFS selected Deirdre to live with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wyss of Wetzikon, Switzerland.

The AFS is a non-profit non-sectarian organization which was founded in 1914 to help promote greater understanding amongst people of all cultures and races by enabling them to live and study in another country for either a summer or a full year. This past year the AFS has sent 450 Americans to 18 different countries and 3033 foreign students from 61 countries are living with American families. All Andover High School students may apply for the program. This year Andover is fortunate to have Winston Francesco of the Philippines here. He is living with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thompson of 52 Chandler Circle and attending Andover High School.

In August Deirdre attended an orientation program held at Hostia University to prepare her and 150 other AFS'ers headed for Europe for their year abroad. Twenty-three of these students are now in Switzerland. Since late August, Deirdre has been exposed to a new family, a different country and culture, a strenuous school schedule which begins at 7 a.m. and includes 14 courses, constant bombardment with a foreign language with its own unwritten dialect, and a vigorous sports program.

She says the Swiss describe themselves as thrifty perfectionists and she finds this is often an accurate description. The painfully slow process of learning to express yourself and be understood in a foreign language even though she had three years of German in high school can be a trying, lonely one.

Her "new father" is heavily engaged in local politics and is very well read and informed. She is quite excited that he has received permission to invite her to a political party meeting of his later during her stay. Since only one other person and never a woman has ever been invited she is quite honored. The Swiss woman can not vote yet, but Deirdre feels her "father" doesn't fear she will lead a campaign for woman's suffrage.

Her "mother" is an excellent cook and housekeeper who's motto is exactness. Everything is made from scratch. Deirdre finds preparing some typical dishes like Boston Baked Beans quite a challenge when all the regular ingredients are not available. My own mother might squirm she says but as long as it tastes good and they like it there she's happy.

There are two boys and two girls in the family. They are all very sports minded and Deirdre plays tennis often, jogs three miles a day, rides a bike to school, belongs to an athletic club and a dance class and has done a lot of climbing with her class at school and her family. Two week's camping in No. Italy were delightful she writes.

As her confidence with the language increased, she requested to be changed to another class from her Swiss sister so that she could learn to express herself without relying on anyone to rephrase things for her. The first time she volunteered an answer in her math class her teacher shouted "Bravo."

Deirdre says, "Breaking the ice with many - a - Swiss is a time requiring process" and she is thankful she chose the full year program. She adds "A whole year is short enough to try and absorb another culture and feel you fit in somewhere. In some areas, I feel as if I'm just getting my feet wet and would hate to quit now."

In order to provide this opportunity for another Andover boy or girl and to enable Andover to have a foreign student living and studying here, people of this area must help to raise money in order to defray their transportation expenses. (The local AFS chapter is sponsoring a Benefit evening at

Senior Citizen Units Soon Available

The Andover Housing Authority will be selecting tenants for occupancy of the new elderly housing project in the very near future. Applications are still being accepted.

To be eligible for this housing a person must meet the following requirements.

A person must be 65 years of age or over (single individuals living alone or couples are eligible).

A person must be a citizen of the United States (except an alien who has served in the armed forces of the United States and who has been honorably discharged and provided application has been made for citizenship and aliens eligible to receive Old Age Assistance).

A person must be of low income. In general the annual income of a single individual not to exceed $2500; and the annual income of a couple not to exceed $3000.

A person must be in need of good housing.

Dwellings are planned for single and double occupancy. Dwelling for two persons may be occupied by the following combinations: a married couple; two men or two women; a brother and sister; in some instances, an elderly tenant (65 years or over) and a non-elderly person provided that person is necessary for the physical well being of the elderly person and is of low income.

Anyone meeting the above eligibility requirements wishing to apply may obtain application forms at the Andover Housing Authority office, 100 Morton St., or by telephoning 475-2365 may have an application mailed to them.

Boy Scouts of Troop 18, South Lawrence, have laid out, cleared and marked a new trail in the Deer Jump Reservation of the Andover Village Improvement Society. The location of the trail was suggested by Wolf Berthold, land management chairman of A.V.I.S.; the work was done under the supervision of Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Thomas Conlon as a requirement toward earning the Eagle Scout award, assisted by Bruce Ahern, Mark Berry, David Cargill, Steve Comperone, Ray Kolias, Dennis Harriman, Bob Conlon, Paul Alsop and Scoutmaster John Fascione.

The trail affords a varied round trip of about one mile, starting near Fishbrook Dam at the foot of Brundrett Avenue where cars may be parked; first it follows the waterpipe right-of-way along-side Fishbrook for nearly a quarter of a mile; then turns right, always well marked by red stripes painted on trees, and brings the hiker to an old cart road overlooking the Merrimack River and then by that road back to the starting point. At the southwesterly corner of this round trip, the path has a spur towards Launching Road, thus providing easy access to the Reservation for the people in the new residential section in the River Road area.

Pre-Christmas Sale Set For Andover Haven

Andover's senior citizens are busy baking, sewing and knitting in preparation for their pre-Christmas sale to be held Dec. 12 starting at 10 a.m. at the Andover Haven on Barnard Street. Everyone in town is invited to come to the sale.

The Andover Haven, senior citizen drop-in center sponsored by the Andover Council on Aging, is open to all Andoverites 60 years of age and older. The Haven has a bowling group every Wednesday morning at the lanes on Park St. They also have access to the billiard tables. Is it possible for the poor trapped in the inner city to find room for decent housing - and at the same time for conservationists to protect enough open land so that New England remains a pleasant place to live? Or will a conflict flare up between the needs of a growing city population and the desire of people in the suburbs and rural areas to keep their communities attractive?

Julian D. Steele, commissioner of the new Massachusetts Department of Community Affairs, which opened its doors for the first time in November, is dedicated to a dual approach of solving the problems of people while still protecting a natural environment in which people can live happily. Speaking at the recent meeting of the Massachusetts Association of Conservation Commissions, Mr. Steele emphasized the importance of coordinating all aspects of community development, whether social or environmental, and he suggested some constructive ways of approaching potential conflicts.

"It seems to me that we have two over-all assignments in the general area of community development," Mr. Steele said. "On the one hand, we must open up wider choices for individual residents in their housing and environments. It must be possible for people with low income as well as high income to choose whether they will live in concentrated urban areas or in less dense suburban or rural areas. It must be possible for people regardless of race, creed, or national origin to live where their incomes can meet the market price.

"On the other hand, we must define and enforce minimum standards throughout the state for housing and environment. This will mean not only reviewing our present state sanitary code as it affects housing but also developing programs to make it possible for all residents to live in standard housing. Residents must have both sound housing structures, and adequate open space, playgrounds, schools, hospitals, libraries and other community facilities. Simultaneously we must make it possible for those communities or parts of communities that wish to provide higher minimum standards than the rest of the state, to be able to do so. . .

"To make housing available for low - and moderate - income families, some local zoning densities may have to be increased in order to reduce the cost of land. There will undoubtedly have to be more willingness to subsidize housing. . .

"We would welcome your help in persuading towns to change their land-use maps where this is necessary. We also need your help in discussing the possibility of providing land for low - and moderate - income housing in your own communities, taking into account possible employment opportunities and transportation facilities."

Ice Capers For February Hockey Trip

Andover High school hockey team thoughts of going to Europe and Russia in February, will depend on the success of Ice Capers, a sports spectacular scheduled for Friday, Dec. 13 at the Forum in Billerica.

The parents and committee members were scheduled to meet Wednesday night to review progress of the sale of tickets.

Featured in the event will be members of the Boston Bruins hockey team, a skating exhibition by the famed Kaufmans, Olympic bronze medalists, an all star vs Andover High hockey game and the appearance of "The Ornaments," a Boston Skating club team.

The All-Star team, made up of members of the Merrimack Valley Hockey league include:

Billerica - Gary Bishop and Mike McElligatt; Chelmsford - Tony Leone and Paul Sharpe; Wilmington - John Gionetti and Jim Cushing; Masconomet Regional - Dan Eremian and Pete Sennott; Tewksbury - George Hughes and

Ed Buckley; Burlington - Bruce Borgeson, Bob Chisholm and Don Blair; and Andover - Lee Russem.

Tickets are being sold on a reserved basis at $5 and $3 each. Tickets may be obtained by mail at Post Office Box 158, Andover; or at Dana's Sport Shop, The Andover Shop, Macartney's in Andover and Lawrence and Finneran's Drug Store, North Andover.

Seminar For Veterans Scheduled

A seminar regarding Veterans Administration benefits is planned for Tuesday, Dec. 10 at the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical High school at 7:30 p.m.

A number of speakers from the Boston office of the Veterans Administration will be on hand to discuss such matters as pension benefits, schooling and vocational rehabilitation, death compensation, eligibility for aid and attendance and household benefits, medication, importance of V. A. income forms, conversion of U.S.G.L. insurance, and other subjects.

Andover Veterans Agent Elmer S. Ober is among the local directors co-sponsoring the seminar. He is being assisted by Veterans Agents Donald Carroll of Lawrence, Bernard Bingham of North Andover and Edward Alekel of Methuen.

Fish may suffocate in thermal-polluted water (rivers, lakes and ocean where heated water is discharged) because these waters do not retain dissolved oxygen. Also, there is an increased growth of bacteria and algae which use up much oxygen, the Massachusetts Audubon Society tells us.

Pick the right day to test drive a Volkswagen and you'll have the road to yourself.

Back when the weather was better, everybody was inviting you to come in and test drive their new whatever.

But now that the weather isn't so hot (and a test drive is really a test), the invitations have dropped off sharply.

Now maybe you can spare a little time to try out the new Volkswagen.

Not right this minute. Wait for a nice lousy day. The next time it's snowing or slushing or something like that, drive down to your Volkswagen dealer. (If you can make it in your car.)

He'll be happy to take you out and show you how a Volkswagen works when hardly anything else does.

How the weight of the motor on the rear wheels makes the VW dig in and go, in the snow or the mud, or even on ice.

As you pass all the stranded cars that passed their test drives in balmy days, he'll tell you about the VW's other cold-weather comforts.

The air-cooled motor. It doesn't freeze over, so it doesn't need anti-freeze or a winter thermostat.

And if you have to leave the car out on a cold wet night, it's got four coats of paint and a sealed bottom to keep it cozy.

You've even got an edge with a VW if the worst happens and you get stuck. What could be easier to push?

Nelson A. Briggs

To Address Symposium In Tel Aviv

The Society of Technical Writers and Publishers has announced that Nelson A. Briggs of Andover, will address the first International Symposium on Technical Communications to be held in Tel Aviv, Israel, Dec. 9-12, 1968. Mr. Briggs will discuss Martin Buber's theory of interpersonal communication as it relates to writing and editing. He will also moderate a panel on the "In-Plant Training of Technical Communicators."

Mr. Briggs, Manager of Technical Publications at The MITRE Corporation in Bedford, is also chairman of the Boston Chapter of STWP, member of the Advisory Committee on Publications Standards, and member of the American Management Association. He graduated from Harvard University in 1955.

The Society of Technical Writers and Publishers, sponsor of the symposium, is a non-profit organization dedicated to furthering the art of communicating technical information, to advancing the concept of effective scientific and technical communications, and to developing the professional competence of its members.

Cub Pack Plans Swap

The monthly pack meeting of Cub Pack 71 at Shawheen School on Dec. 19 will feature an old-fashioned Christmas gift swap. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Awards made at the last meeting were a Gold Arrow and two Silver Arrows to Kent Kefferstan, Wolf Badge, a Gold Arrow and two Silver Arrows to David Goodrich.

The Outdoorsman Award for Webelos was given to Hugh Conlon and Bill Boucher. Two year pins were awarded to Jerry Cox, Brian Clark, Bill Boucher, Hugh Conlon, Tim Shea and Jeff Cowie.

Bobcat and Wolf books were awarded to Michael Levinger, Jeffrey Kidwell, William Rodgers, Eugene Harris, Mike Pawlick and Stephen Curtis.

Bear books were given to Neil Van Duinen, Scott Hill and Philip Nardone.

Webelos Badges were awarded to Ricky Meuse and Doug Guild.

All awards were presented by Pack Master Cornelius Shea.

Trumpeter swans, North America's largest waterfowl, have increased from a flock of 70 to about 800 since 1935 when Red Rock Lakes Refuge, Montana, was established by conservation groups and individuals, the Massachusetts Audubon Society says. Now, they are being reintroduced to Oregon, Nevada, Wyoming and South Dakota.

on that date to check progress and probably make the decision as to whether double sessions will end or continue until the February school recess.

Supt. of Schools Edward L. Erickson remains guardedly optimistic, noting that workers, "are making good progress at the moment, but we will know better what the situation is on Dec. 13."

Supt. Erickson has requested a two month extension of the permission granted by the state education department for the double sessions, in case the school is not ready.

He emphasized that while he was opposed to the double sessions, he felt that if the building is not substantially ready to accept pupils, then a delay until February would be better.

The superintendent said he "would much rather go in when things were pretty well set," rather than chance the problems of going in too early.

Whatever the case, Andover's newest and most modern, both in architecture and planned program, is being eyed closely as the Christmas season approaches.

Administrators are hopeful that they will find a building ready for occupancy under the tree by Christmas day.

The epidemic of curly hair-styles has brought the need for lots of permanents. If you haven't had one since you were seven, and remember that you didn't like it . . . remember something else, too . . . Times have changed. Along with the rest of the modern miracles man has created several types of very reliable permanent waves. You can get a little, or a lot, of curl. You can get a special wave for tinted or bleached hair. All you have to do is make your wishes clear to your beauty operator. He or she will do the rest.

In addition to permanents we at CAPITO HAIR STYLISTS, 2 Riverina Rd., Shawsheen-Andover (Tel. 475-1639) offer all phases of hair care. Open 9-6. Fri. 9-8. Ample Parking. Make your holiday appointments now. We carry wigs, wiglets & falls.

Philharmonic To Conduct Concert, Dec. 15

The Christmas concert of the Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Orchestra will be held on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 15 at 3:30 p.m. at the West Junior High School on Shawsheen Road, Nicholas Van Slyck will conduct.

One of the features of the program will be a "Concert Overture" composed by Francis E. Lawlor, a first violinist in the orchestra.

Mr. Lawlor, now of Amesbury, is a native Lawrencean and graduated from Lawrence High School in 1940, having played both the band and orchestra. He graduated from Harvard in 1943 as a music major. Again he was a member of the band and orchestra. He received an MA degree from Boston University in 1950, majoring in composition, having studied with Robert King and Hugo Norden.

During his Army service from 1943 to 1946 he was a member of the 14th Armored Division and 3rd Army Bands.

Mr. Lawlor has served as band director and instructor in music at Dartmouth College from 1946 to 1951; band director in Amesbury public schools since 1960; and is director of music in Amesbury since 1960. For three seasons he directed the Hampton Beach concert band.

His principal compositions have included overtures, incidental music for "King Lear" and "Agamemnon"; and arrangements for band, brass and woodwind ensembles.

Cities are drier and wetter than the countryside because there are few trees to keep the air moist; wind blows dirt particles into the air where they become a nucleus for rain drops, and the rain runs off buildings and pavement rather than sinking into the ground, the Massachusetts Audubon Society reports.

School Board Commends Reports

The pleasure of the School Committee was quite evident Tuesday night when they heard reports submitted by two committees concerned with developing new programs which the schoolmen had voted into being.

Commended were James Murphy, head of the high school math department, who submitted the recommendations of a five-member committee on formation of a Curriculum Council for Andover Schools, and Joseph Normandy, Sanborn School principal who submitted the plans and a $29,770 budget, for a system-wide health and family living program.

Establishment of the Curriculum Council and the health program, were voted last spring by the school committee, as system-wide, K-12 programs.

The schoolmen will study the reports further before budget action, but they praised Murphy and Normandy and the committees they represented for sound and constructive work.

The committee also advised the School Committee that coordinators should be phased gradually into their jobs, with a gradual assimilation of duties, adjustment of salaries and shifting of personnel. The post would carry a lightening of teaching load, and a salary premium.

Department heads would not function also as curriculum coordinators, though they might become coordinators and phase out of departmental duties.

The curriculum council committee said it was aware that introducing the curriculum council and coordinators into an existing school framework required delicate handling, to get the greatest benefit in teacher involvement and cooperation, curriculum development and coordination, without disturbing the administrative framework.

The health program budget includes $10,000 for a coordinator or director, $3,600 in additional salaries for teachers responsible for conducting the program at the high school level and $8,700 for the additional high school teacher who must be hired if these teachers are released from supervisory or teaching posts to carry out the program.

The elementary program was presented in most detail in the report, but accounted for less than $6,000 of the budget total. The elementary program will include 12 afternoon training sessions during this school year, a summer workshop under a director and leaders from each of the seven elementary schools, before the program is initiated in the school next fall.

Mrs. Cole, in complimenting Normandy and the lay committee on the thoroughness of the report, asked why the junior high schools were not even mentioned, in what was supposedly a K-12 program. Normandy said the junior highs each had its own separate program in this area, but so far had not become part of the coordinated program, and neither had made budget requests for further work.

To Check On Farm Workers

The annual Bureau of the Census national survey of hired farm workers will include households in this area, according to Director James W. Turbitt of the Bureau's regional office in Boston. The Director said that the Bureau's interviewers will call on local households during the week of Dec. 8.

The survey is being done in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture

Pike School Has Two New Trustees

At a recent meeting of the incorporators of The Pike School, two trustees were elected for three-year terms to succeed trustees whose terms have expired.

Nelson Burbank was appointed to succeed Mrs. George Richardson. Mr. Burbank is a resident of Reading. He is a graduate of Reading High School and Boston University. He served in the U. S. Army during World War II. He was associated with the investment firm of Vance, Sanders and Company from 1946 through June, 1953. Mr. Burbank founded Burbank and Company, Inc. on June 1, 1953 and has been president of that firm since that date.

At the present time, Mr. Burbank, is a Governor of the Boston Stock Exchange and member of the executive committee. He is also a trustee of the Reading Savings Bank.

Mrs. Thomas J. Thomas was appointed to succeed Mrs. Edward B. Stevens. Mrs. Thomas has been active in alumni affairs and closely associated with the school's development during the past ten years. She is the daughter of Nicholas Grillo, a leader in the establishment of the school in its present corporate form and he served as a trustee for many years. Mrs. Thomas' husband served a term as president of the school's parent association. A son and a daughter attend the school and she, herself, is a graduate of The Pike School, the first to serve the school as a trustee. Following graduation from Abbot Academy, Mrs. Thomas earned an A. B. degree at Connecticut College for Women.

Garrett Players Plan Comedy

The Garrett Players have completed casting and rehearsals are already underway for their second production of the 1968-69 season.

The play, "Two For The Seesaw," an adult comedy drama by William Gibson will be directed by Frank V. Leone of Haverhill and presented at Turn Hall, 44 Park St., Lawrence on Jan. 24th, 25th and 26th. Mr. Leone also directed the Garrett's first production, "Never Too Late."

The complete cast of "Two For The Seesaw" consists of two people only; Mrs. Kirby M. Lander of Andover and Thomas Garland of Lawrence. All season ticket holders are asked to please disregard the incorrect dates printed on their tickets for this production and also for the months of March and May.

For the past month, rehearsals have also been in progress for a one-act play, "Rise and Shine," which will be presented at the Masonic Temple in Lawrence on Jan. 2.

At a recent executive board meeting, it was decided that the drama workshop for adults be suspended temporarily.

The next general meeting of the Garrett Players will be held at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 12 at Garrett headquarters, Odd Fellows Building, 7 Hampshire St., Methuen. Anyone interested in any phase of theatrical production is invited to attend.

Lest We Forget

It was just 27 years ago this Saturday, that the "Day That Will Live in Infamy," plunged America into World War II.

This was the war to end all wars — yet the blood of American men has been spilled and is still being sacrificed for the freedom of this country, and the world.

The memorial to the U.S.S. Arizona is a tribute to 1,500 men trapped in the hulk of the ship, which today remains the flagship of the U.S. Navy. Efforts to bring the men out were abandoned after two divers tried to open the sunken craft but were killed when the gas and oil exploded.

Though the years have passed, the world remains in ferment, and America continues to defend liberty.

Would it not be wise on Saturday to take a moment to pray that one day we shall have peace, and that truly these men who gave their lives for the preservation of peace and liberty, did not do so in vain.

Bancroft Thoughts

A decision is to be made soon as to whether the new Bancroft school will be ready for occupancy following the Christmas recess, thus relieving double sessions of the South-Bancroft schools.

To date the double sessions have worked out well, although it has been an inconvenience to parents and children alike.

The decision on whether to open Bancroft after Christmas will be eagerly awaited, but parents must be cautious and continued patience will be necessary if the building is not ready for occupancy.

Supt. of Schools Edward I. Erickson has taken the precaution to seek permission to continue double sessions for two months if the building is not ready. He has further stated that despite the administrative dislike for double session, he would rather that, than going into a building when things are not completely set.

We endorse his position in the matter, for sending elementary school children into an unfinished building could be dangerous. The school department is aware that it can live, so to speak, with incomplete facilities provided major work is finished.

To subject children to the hazards of major construction work, with all its modern day power equipment, is to open the door to possible injury to youthful curiosity.

The decision is due soon. It appears that municipal officials must make a wise judgment when the time comes, and if double sessions must continue for another short period, patience indeed is the proper attitude.

Waiting until February would be much more advisable than endangering the children and would also make for a better educational atmosphere. This is true particularly in view of the type of school which the youngsters will be entering — the progressive education theory or ungraded system.

We sincerely hope the Bancroft will open on Jan. 6, but also hope that parents will understand and be lenient if further inconvenience is necessary for another few weeks.

A Proud Day

Saturday must have been a proud day for a young Andover man, his parents and the town itself.

Dave Bennett, who broke scoring records at Boston College, as the team beat traditional rival Holy Cross, 40-20, was awarded the O'Melia Trophy, symbolic of superior performance in the annual clash.

Bennett has been a headline player all year.

He burst into the sports headlines in the opening two games of the season when he surpassed his scoring record of a year ago. He went on to capture the school records before the end of the season.

In doing so, he put Andover on the map, since he figures in the top scoring categories in the nation, not so far behind O. J. Simpson, the nationally regarded gridiron hero of 1968.

A proud product of Andover High school, where he captained the football team not too many years ago, we join with the thousands who are justifiably proud of this young man's performance and wish him well in the future.

Hopefully we will be seeing him on those long Sunday afternoons, traversing across the gridiron for one of the professional football teams.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:
It was illuminating of the Townsman to direct attention (Editorial, Nov. 21) to its views of "An Appeal" by the abutters to the proposed Raytheon complex in West Andover. May I express a different view.

Andover's welfare will be best served by a 4 to 6 year slow down of its program for converting itself into a town of city characteristics with the hope that its tax rate will be less, employment opportunities more and city conditions avoided.

Important aspects of our zoning laws are covenants running with the land, covenants that have induced people to buy residential property and to move into Andover, covenants that town meeting is illadvised to change lightly. (It took only 30 days to accomplish the latest adventure in the name of easy tax money.)

Little more than 4% of the money collected from industry's taxes, in a town such as Andover, can be considered "profit" after the costs of generating the taxes is deducted. Therefore the country town characteristics sacrificed for that small gain is a losing proposition. Not to mention the ethical aspects involved in voting out a covenant.

Moreover, good neighbors in the industrial world are growing in number and they can be had at less cost as time goes by. Also its likely that the State would not allow fish odors in West Andover. Tho I'm sure that Andover's Town Meeting, in a time of fuller consideration, would not allow any odors either.

Wisdom suggests that Town Meeting consider a change of heart in this matter; and that Raytheon consider all the aspects of its deed.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:
Greater Lawrence is experiencing a public transportation crisis.

The B & M has a single run, the total cost of MBTA is prohibitive, Trombly is apparently being frozen out of Boston.

As Greater Lawrence continues to grow, public transportation to Boston will become ever more desirable as an alternative to having hundreds of private vehicles clogging the highways and fighting for urban parking spaces.

If our public agencies fail to provide an acceptable public answer to this pressing public problem, the alternative may have to be private action. By this I mean a local transportation cooperative.

A transportation cooperative could be organized by those private individuals needing the service — not for the purpose of making a profit, but rather for the purpose of providing a needed public service.

It may yet turn out that private individuals will have to do for themselves what the public sector cannot do. Should such mutual private action sound way out, consider the alternative.

Off The Top Of The Desk

When do most major appliances break down? Just when they are most needed, of course. Word arrives at the desk about a family gathering on Thanksgiving day with about 15 people sitting down to the traditional holiday meal. Following the dinner, it was found that the electric dishwasher was inoperable, thus leading to a return to dishpan hands for the hosts.

Things that can be embarrassing: A listing of the staff of a college newspaper received by this office lists the reporters and proofreaders. The line in the masthead reads, however, "reportres and proofreaders."

The ultimate in frustration: Meeting a person the day after Bruins hockey game who tells you he had three tickets for the game and couldn't find anyone to use them. The games are sold out until after New Years Day we understand. Twice now a friend has been confronted with the same statement. An ardent Bruins fan, the statement has brought almost instant insanity.

Sounds of the holiday season permeate the downtown area these days as the Andover Fire department, as they have in the past, play the traditional Christmas music. The pleasant sounds aid the busy shoppers as they dash from store to store. The fire department has annually been active during the Christmas season.

We think some control should be exercised by parade officials in the traditional Santa Claus parades to insure that there will be just one jolly old red-suited symbol of Christmas for the youngsters in the line of march. Recently in a parade in a nearby community, there were two which certainly can lead to childhood confusion. One was suited quite elaborately, while the other was not quite up to standard. We overheard several parents explaining away the situation with the comment that the other one was one of Santa's helpers dressed in similar attire.

Coming Events:

Dec. 5 - 3:30 p.m. Children's Films; Dec. 10, 10 a.m. Story hour for Chipmunks in Children's Room; Dec. 11, 10 a.m. Story hour for Bunnies in Children's Room; Dec. 12, 10 a.m. Story hour for Eddie and Ellie Elephants at Ballardvale Branch; Dec. 12, 3:30 p.m. Story hour for school-age children. Activities For Schoolage Children Children's films will be shown today, Dec. 5, at 3:30 p.m. Next week, the theme for the story hour on Thursday, Dec. 12 at 3:30 p.m. will be "Around the Fairy Ring." Miss Elizabeth Russell, Children's Librarian, will tell two stories, "Tommo and the Fairies," and "The Woman Who Flummoxed the Fairies." Children should be present promptly in the Children's Room at Memorial Hall Library for both programs.

Vale Branch

With the advent of stormy weather, Mrs. Martha MacCausland, Librarian of the Ballardvale Branch Library, wishes to remind parents of the children attending the pre-school children's story hours that a "no-school" bell on Thursday morning means that there will be no story hour for littlest listeners on that day. All meetings will be moved ahead one week.

Magazines

What does the "magazine" suggest to you? We're talking about the kind of magazine that comes out faithfully once a week, every two weeks, monthly or on some other periodic basis. Is a magazine to you just a "one-shot" production—to be read, then cast aside? Well, Memorial Hall Library doesn't believe a magazine is perishable, and if the magazine is one of thousands that is indexed so that articles and stories can be found with ease, it is kept for your use by the library for years and years. Some magazine files at the library go back 25 to 50 years or more. Much fascinating and factual material that is too

75 Years Ago — December, 1893

The selectmen meet Monday which is also town pay day. Rabbit's meadow on Bartlett street afforded good skating last week and quite a number enjoyed it.

School Committeeman F. O. Baldwin will conduct a party of teachers to Marblehead in the interests of a study of mineralogy.

The city election in Lawrence occurs Tuesday. The results, especially on the liquor question, will be awaited with interest here.

The Essex County fair and cattle show will be held in Haverhill again in 1894 and better accommodations and arrangements are promised.

50 Years Ago — December, 1918

Return of influenza in town as over 100 cases reported during the past week.

Tuesday afternoon about five o'clock a Ford runabout collided with a Franklin. The steering post of the Franklin was badly damaged but the Ford, of course, was uninjured.

At a meeting of the school committee it was decided to close the schools Tuesday Dec. 24 and open Dec. 30.

The Andover Red Cross has issued an urgent appeal for old linen or soft cotton.

After being closed for about a month because of the influenza epidemic, Memorial Hall library reopened Oct. 28 and from that date to the end of November, 3,926 books were issued.

outscored Andover 35 to 26 in the second half. Guinn of B.M.I. led all scorers with 29 points, O'Brien led the losers with 21 points. This was a big win for B.M.I. considering Andover had four veteran starters who last year held down B.M.I. 80 to 60. It was a thriller down to the buzzer with Andover having control of the ball with only 7 seconds to play but failed to score.

Speech Program Needs Therapist

The School committee listened sympathetically to Robert Shapiro and Josephine Broadbent of the elementary speech and hearing department, who requested budget provision for another therapist in the system.

They stressed that early diagnosis and treatment lead to early solution of language difficulties. While the 2-30 minutes twice a week now given is adequate to help the numerous children with mild articulation problems in speech, the more severe cases should be separated out for much more help. The specialists felt that they are just going through the motions with the severe language disabilities in Jackson School, since they cannot spread themselves thin enough to give the help that is needed.

School Committee has approved the addition of Edward M. Connor and George J. LeGault to the custodial staff of the Andover schools.

Leaves Federal Post To Serve As Town Counsel

Paul F. Markham, United States Attorney for the District of Massachusetts has announced the resignation of Albert F. Cullen Jr., from the office of the United States Attorney.

Atty. Cullen has been assistant United States Attorney since Sept. of 1965. While in the office of the United States Attorney, he handled both civil and criminal litigation involving the United States.

Atty. Cullen plans to begin work as a special counsel for the town of Brookline. At Brookline he will be responsible for the enforcement of health, sanitary, building, and zoning codes and will serve directly under the board of selectmen.

Atty. Cullen attended Harvard College and graduated in 1960. He also attended Harvard Law School and graduated in 1963. Prior to his serving with the United States Attorney's office in Boston, he was associated with the law firm of Parker, Colter, Daley and White.

Atty. Cullen lives at 18 Downing St. with his wife and their two children.

Central, where he said the feasibility was not yet assured, although it was needed most here because of the lack of suitable new school sites. When questioned about the feasibility of the Carmel Woods site, Crimp said it was a very difficult site, and the variations in grade were "quite shocking", but added with a glint that an architect loves a challenge, if the committee were willing to pay the price. With the exception of Committeeman William Doherty, the members backed away as if they had seen a snake.

The decision to hire NESDEC's services came after settling two questions within the committee on the scope of the consulting services desired. Committeeman Doherty wanted to hire NESDEC for a full-scale survey, with recommendations, of the entire school system and its organization. King held that such a survey would take a long long time and be obsolete within a couple of years.

The committee went along with

King's and Mrs. Virginia Cole's contentions that expansion of both schools was obviously necessary, the committee had decided on the projects, and what they needed now was "answers, not recommendations."

The second issue was whether to have the men NESDEC put together as a consulting team help Andover write up educational specifications, or to pay more to NESDEC and hold the educational consulting service responsible for producing the educational specifications, after working with the appropriate Andover school people. The school committee chose the latter course.

The second issue was settled when the school committee decided to pay a higher fee to hold the NESDEC consulting team responsible for actually producing the educational specifications for the two secondary school building projects, instead of having NESDEC act as consultants to Andover school people, who would then write up their own educational specifications.

The NESDEC specifications will be submitted to the superintendent for approval, and the committee is also anxious to check on the list of consultants which NESDEC hires, mostly from universities and other schools systems, to act as the consulting team for Andover.

The chimney swifts' wintering area was not discovered until 1943 when Indians in Peru shot some of these birds that had been banded in Tennessee eleven years previously, the Massachusetts Audubon Society reports.

Hammond Museum To Present Christmas Music

In the Hammond Museum, in a great hall similar to a great Gloucester, there is an opportunity to listen to Christmas music seated Here one may listen to music for Christmas from the great 14,000 pipe organ as Douglas Rafter performs at the console on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 8 at 4 p.m. Concert to be repeated at 8 p.m. due to a sell out of 4 p.m. seats.

The gilded wood carving surrounding the organ console is 15th century German Gothic carving and once stood around the console of the organ of the Marienkirche in Lubeck where Buxtehude was organist and often visited by his friend Bach.

Mr. Rafter is currently a staff organist with Steinert Hall, Boston, and organist at the Church of the New Jerusalem in Boston. He has had wide experience as a concert artist appearing extensively throughout the eastern United States, Canada and England. He has made many hundreds of appearances in concert on radio, television, including the "Today" show.

Tickets are available by mail order to the Hammond Museum, P. O. Box 141, Gloucester, Mass. 01930, or by telephone.

BOWLING

Bowling, called America's No. 1 indoor sport, has been attracting increased interest in recent years. And, judging from the demand for books on bowling at the Memorial Hall Library, interest in this pastime has also stepped up locally.

According to Librarian Mrs. Bea Shepherd, the library has a number of helpful books for the beginner and the more advanced bowler interested in improving his skill.

An excellent recent guide is "Bowling Secrets of the Pros," edited by George Sullivan, in which 15 of the country's top bowling stars reveal tips and strategies that have brought them success.

Additional bowling handbooks published in recent years are "Ten Secrets of Bowling," by Don Carter; "Better Bowling," by Joe Wilman; "Modern Bowling Technique," by Junie McMahon and Murray Goodman; "The Pro's Handbook of Bowling," by Myron Gubitz; "How to Bowl Better," by Ned Day; "The Woman's Bowling Guide," by Sylvia Wene and "The Secrets of Bowling Strikes," by Dawson Taylor.

Photography Show Opens At Addison

The world is no stranger than it ever was. Man is the stranger and how he sees his world depends on how he looks. Concerned with this strange consistency, an exhibition, THE PERSISTENCE OF VISION, was assembled by the George Eastman House, Rochester, New York, to explore major trends in contemporary photography. The 91 photographs which comprise the show are currently on display at the Addison Gallery of American Art, Phillips Academy, Andover. Six artists are represented: Donald Blumberg, Charles Gill, Robert Heinecken, Ray K. Metzker, Jerry N. Uelsmann and John Wood. The first two named are photographer and painter respectively, collaborating to produce "team images."

The author of the exhibit, Associate Director of Eastman House, Nathan Lyons, writes in the illustrated catalogue which accompanies the exhibit, "What we seem to be trying to discuss is whether or not the visual capabilities of the picture-maker attain a greater degree of significance if the experience is rendered directly or applied in some form that departs from the traditional concern for basic photographic order.

Hockey Association To Hold Canvass

The Andover Hockey Association will conduct a door-to-door canvass of the town on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 7 and 8 to raise funds for the third annual Canadian tour for its top Bantam hockey team.

This marks the third consecutive season that the Andover Bantam team has been invited to have its team represent the town in games with Bantam teams in the Canadian Province of Ontario.

Last year the Bantam team, which consists of boys aged 13 and 14, won three of the four games played in Canada with two victories in Toronto and one in Niagara Falls. The only loss came in the final game of the tour, also in Niagara Falls.

This year the team will leave Andover on Sunday, Feb. 16, and will return the following Saturday. The tour will include games in Toronto on Monday and Thursday of that week and in Hamilton, Ontario, on Tuesday and in Oshawa, Ontario, on Friday.

All of the games have been arranged through the cooperation of the recreation departments of the various cities. In addition the city of Toronto provides the team with practice sites as well as swimming and other recreational facilities during their stay there.

Accommodations for the team will be provided with the cooperation of the Lord Simcoe Hotel in downtown Toronto. Special rates have been made available for the team which will make its headquarters for the entire week at this hotel.

In addition to the games scheduled for the team to play, several other educational and recreational activities have been planned for the boys. Among these activities, some of which are still tentative, are a National Hockey League Game between the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Montreal Canadiens at Maple Leaf Gardens, a visit to a Maple Leaf practice session, a visit to the Hockey Hall of Fame in Toronto, a tour of a steel mill in Hamilton, a tour of the Casa Loma Castle in Toronto, a visit to the Toronto harbor, a tour of the Toronto City Hall, and a tour of the Canadian side of Niagara Falls.

The players who will make the trip face the responsibility of raising all of the necessary funds. They hope to raise the bulk of the required $2000 when they canvass the town on Saturday and Sunday. To do this, they will offer to residents memberships in the Andover Hockey Association for which minimum dues are $1.00 per year. Other than the donations received the team is unsupported and is responsible for supporting itself. The team members will be dressed in their hockey uniforms for easy identification.

Last year the Andover Hockey Association presented a concert by the West Point Cadet Glee Club to show its gratitude for previous support given to the team. The association is currently attempting to make arrangements to present another well-known organization in this locale early next year.

In addition to the Canadian tour the team will play an extensive schedule of games in this general area. Included are games in Concord, N. H., and Providence, R. I., as well as in several Massachusetts towns.

Tea

Although today's pharmacist still gets an occasional call for "chamomile tea" or one of the proprietary medicinal teas, the word is, in most instances, used to denote the popular beverage.

Originally, however, tea was used almost exclusively as a medicine in China—until about the 6th century, when it became a common beverage and its use for this purpose slowly spread to other countries.

England, where tea-drinking is a national custom, was first introduced to the product's non-medicinal use during the fourteenth century.

THE ANDOVER TOWNSMAN, DECEMBER 5, 1968

27

It was all Andover and Jim Gillan last Thursday as the Golden Warriors of Andover High defeated North Andover, 32-7.

Gillan scored every one of Andover's points with five touchdowns and a two point conversion. Andover has 11 straight victories over North Andover and 38-9-4 record in the traditional Thanksgiving Day series.

Gillan, with his 32 point performance on the holiday, wound up as Greater Lawrence's leading scorer.

Halfback Ellis Rowe on the first play from scrimmage went around right end for a 57 yard gain to the North Andover 11, in three plays Fullback Gillan scored.

North Andover's sole touchdown immediately followed. Bob Cox swept around the left end 55 yards for the touchdown. The extra point try was successful and the Scarlet Knights led, 7-6.

Andover came right back to score, taking the kickoff and driving to the North Andover two yard line. Gillan then went through the middle for six points.

Joe Johnston recovered a fumble at the 41, where Gillan took the ball on the next play straight into the end zone. He also made the conversion and Andover led, 20-7.

Andover excelled on defense as North Andover failed to pass the 50 yard line in the second half. Doug Hamilton's pass interception allowed Gillan to score from the 26.

Early in the final period, Gillan topped a 61 yard drive by scoring from the nine.

Gillan compiled 215 yards on 31 carries and teammate Ellis Rowe totalled eight carries and 85 yards to dominate the game offensively.

Andover completed its season winning the final four games and the Little Three championship, for Head Coach Richard Collins and assistants Wilbur Hixon, William Vickers and Drummond Bissett.

ORPHANAGE BENEFITS

In 1925 August Hecksher, of New York, a wealthy philanthropist, owned an enormous Florida citrus grove which produced fruit not only for health, but also for happiness. Located near Mountain Lake, this 2000 acre property, called the Templetown Grove, was operated for the sole purpose of maintaining an orphanage in New York. It was considered the largest citrus grove under individual ownership in the world.

Hicks - Freeman

In a 5 p.m. candle-lit ceremony in South Church on Nov. 11, Miss Martha Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Freeman, 419 Andover St., became the wife of John F. Hicks Jr., of Nashua, N. H.

Mr. Hicks is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hicks of East Kingston, N. H.

The bride's gown was an original of delustered satin, with a bateau neckline, long pointed sleeves, Empire waist and an A-line skirt.

Alencon lace adorned the midriff, overlapped with a narrow sash and caught in a bow. Motifs extended to the skirt and a scalloped border. The detachable court train fell from the waist, and a two-tiered silk illusion veil fell from an Alencon lace hat outlined with seed pearls.

Miss Susan Fox was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Carol Lukens, Mrs. Stephen Sweder and Mrs. Edward Phelan.

Joseph Burke served as best man for Mr. Hicks, and Gordon Freeman, Jr., Reuben Streep and Richard Colman were ushers at the service.

A reception at the Chateau de Ville followed the ceremony.

The former Miss Freeman is a graduate of Andover High School and Dean Junior College, and she has been associated with the Furniture Barn.

The bridegroom is employed as air traffic controller by the Federal Aviation Agency.

The couple will make their home in Oklahoma City.

Academy Choir In Concert

The joyful sounds of Christmas music will resound in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts rotunda at two holiday concerts Tuesday, Dec. 10 at 8 p.m. and Saturday, Dec. 14 at 3 p.m.

The Wheaton College Glee Club will don ceremonial medieval robes Dec. 10 to present a concert of music from the 13th to 20th centuries written for women's voices. The choral group will be accompanied by the museum's early music ensemble, the Camerata, under the direction of Charles Fassett, Soprano Ellalou Dimmock of Lexington, a soloist with the Camerata for 12 years, will sing the lovely "From Virgin pure this day did spring" by William Byrd, and a dramatic cantata by Jullien Weiland.

A special Family Christmas Concert will be given by the Phillips Academy Andover Choir, directed by William L. Schneider and the Winsor School Glee Club, directed by Miss Pauline Davis, on Dec. 14. The two schools will join together to present a traditional program of yuletide carols and the audience will be invited to join the caroling before moving into the tapestry gallery for Christmas punch and cookies.

Tableaus To Be Presented

As the highlight of their annual Christmas party scheduled for Dec. 9, at 8 p.m., the Ladies of Merrimack will present living tableaus of "The Christmas Story" under the direction of Mrs. Marguerite B. Morais.

To give the presentation a professional touch, two members of the Merrimack College drama society, the On-Stagers, John S.

Gallagher and David B. Wile, will work with the ladies. Members of the Ladies of Merrimack will be featured in the cast.

Assisting with the presentation is Mrs. William V. Crawford Jr., of North Andover, co-chairman Mrs. Walter F. Donahue and Mrs. Gerard Mayotte are in charge of hospitality.

The affair will be held in Merrimack College Auditorium.

Assisting with preparations are the following committee members from Andover, Mrs. Walter J. Anderson, Mrs. John T. Daly, Mrs. William A. Doherty, Mrs. James Forma, Mrs. Joseph F. Gurry, Mrs. Simeon E. LeGendre Jr., Mrs. John B. McAllister, Mrs. James A. McGravey, Mrs. Francis Nikonchuk, Mrs. Charles W. Richards.

NAACP Head
To Address
Annual Dinner

Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, will be guest of honor and featured speaker at the annual dinner of the association's Merrimack Valley Branch, it was announced by John J. Shaughnessy, general chairman of the dinner, to be held Dec. 7 at Phillips Andover Academy gymnasium.

Mr. Wilkins, who has been called "Mr. Civil Rights," will be introduced by Erwin D. Canham, Editor in Chief of the Christian Science Monitor.

Mr. Wilkins was born in St. Louis, Missouri, but grew up in St. Paul, Minnesota. Following his graduation from the University of Minnesota in 1923, he worked for eight years on the staff of The Kansas City Call, a Negro weekly, and eventually became managing editor.

He joined the staff of the NAACP in 1931 as assistant executive secretary, and while holding that position was also Editor from 1934 to 1949 of The Crisis, the association's official monthly magazine. From June 1, 1949 to May 31, 1950, he was Acting Secretary during Walter White's leave of absence, and became Administrator in 1950. He was unanimously named Executive Director by the Board of Directors on April 11, 1955.

As leader of the largest and most effective civil rights organization in the country, he has been the top strategist of the civil rights movement during the period of its greatest progress. He and Clarence Mitchell, the NAACP's Washington representative, are credited with steering the mass of civil rights bills through Congress.

In March, 1967, when Mr. Wilkins received the annual Freedom House Award for furthering the cause of human liberty, President Johnson called him "A unique American whose contributions transcend the boundaries of both time and territory."

He lives in New York City, where the NAACP has its national headquarters.

BUSINESS PROFILESVisit M. J. Sullivan's Gift Shoppe

This busy holiday season when your time is at a premium, instead of shopping around, go directly to the Michael J. Sullivan Furniture Store, 226 Essex Street in Lawrence. Sullivan's unique Home Planners' and Gift Shoppe is now brimming over with unusual gifts and accessories for the home. Miss Lorraine will be only too happy to take you on the "Grand Tour" through the beautifully decorated rooms, where you may see gift items displayed on the mantles, tables and walls as they would be in your own home.

For Christmas giving, Sullivan's is showing many imported, unusual gift items from Austria; giftware from Denmark, such as cordial sets and exquisite salad bowls; traditional Hummels and hand-painted vases; Korean brass and a lovely line of Fenton lamps. When you stroll through these six idea-filled rooms arranged like a beautiful and gracious home, you will see gift suggestions for everyone on your list. There are lovely pictures, magazine holders, foot stools, rolling record holders, oil paintings, wall mirrors in all sizes, plus charming accent pieces in copper, milk glass, the silvery sheen of Dutch pewter and the lustre of English bone china. A varied selection of hostess carts suggests novel ideas for holiday entertaining.

Featured in Sullivan's Home

Planners' and Gift Shoppe this season is Country Estate by Drexel. This is a fresh new style of furniture that enables you to live casually while enjoying the warmth of traditional and the feeling of an informal country look with overtones of Early American, French and Mediterranean.

Plan to visit Sullivan's soon. Browsing is encouraged and their expert staff and decorating service are at your disposal. This dependable store has been serving residents of the Greater Lawrence area for generations with the finest names in furniture, and this holiday season would be an ideal time for you, too, to get acquainted.

Brooks School History To Be Discussed

Frank D. Ashburn, founder and headmaster of Brooks School, North Andover, will give a history of this private secondary school for boys before the North Andover Historical Society tonight.

Thomas W. Leavitt, program chairman for the society, said that Dr. Ashburn's would be the first of several lectures the society will sponsor on "North Andover Since the Second World War." He pointed out that it was appropriate for the series to start with a history of Brooks School, which is just 41 years old. Organized in 1927, it was 14 years old when Pearl Harbor was bombed. Like other institutions in North Andover, it has developed markedly since 1945.

Dr. Ashburn has held several important offices in the educational world since World War II ended. He has served on the College Entrance Examination Board, has been a trustee of the Episcopal Theological School and president of the Headmasters' Association at various times; in 1965 he was a member of the Ford Foundation Committee for the study of the United Nations School.

The meeting will be held in the society's headquarters at 153 Academy Road, North Andover. It will begin at 8 p.m. and is open to all interested persons at no charge.

Mushrooms In Prominence

While deepening frosts have cut off some crops from local farms, others, like mushrooms, have come into prominence, says the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture in announcing this week's "best buys".

Greenhouse tomatoes are in adequate supply and reasonably priced, along with carrots and turnips. Blue Hubbard and butter-nut squash are plentiful and economical, as are spinach, parsley, kale and Swiss chard. Prices of native McIntosh and Baldwin apples are reasonable for this season, while quality continues uniformly excellent. On egg counters, extra large are the best buy, followed by jumbos. Cider from local farms is available at moderate prices. With local mushroom houses sending in peak supplies, it's a good time for homemakers to delight their families with this recipe for Boston baked mushrooms, which, in the opinion of many mushroom fanciers, deserves as much attention as Boston baked beans:

De-stem 1 lb. mushrooms. Wash and dry caps, wash and chop stems. Cook 3 diced slices bacon with mushroom stems and 2 tbsps chopped green pepper. Add 1 slice of bread, crumbled, 1 tbsp. instant minced onion, 1/2 tsp. seasoned salt, 1/4 tsp. Accent. Stuff mushroom caps with mixture and place in shallow baking dish. Brush caps with vegetable oil and add a bit of water. Bake at 375 degree F. for 25 minutes. Serve.

Agri-Fact:

While at one time mushrooms were thought to have as much nutritive value as steak, the scientific evidence does put mushrooms on a higher level than most vegetable crops, so far as nutritive value is concerned. Mushrooms actually provide a good deal more protein than other vegetables, as well as adequate supplies of vitamins and minerals. Mycologists, academic and amateur alike, those botanists who study fungi or mushrooms, don't consider mushrooms as a vegetable at all. They have their own unique identity and have proved so interesting as to inspire the growth of numerous mycology clubs throughout the country.

Lady bugs eat insects in orchards, melon patches, and in fields of wheat, oats and barley. During the Middle Ages their beneficial work was recognized; they were dedicated to the Virgin Mary and called the "Beetles of Our Lady," according to the Massachusetts Audubon Society. A gallon of lady bugs (135,000) can control pests on 4 1/2 acres.

CLASSROOM AREA. This is a classroom area of the new Bancroft school. It is located on the upper level overlooking the resource center, the hub of the school's education program. Some of the storage cases are already in the room, although carpeting is still to be placed on the floors. When completed there will be partitions made of chalkboard which will partially separate the three sections of the particular grade which will occupy this area. (Albert)

Santa Parade On Saturday

The annual Santa Claus parade will step off from the Central school grounds Saturday at 10:30 a.m.

Conducted by the Andover Firemen's Relief Association, the parade will proceed over Punchard avenue to North Main Street to the Shawsheen Plaza.

Santa will be accompanied by bands and floats marking his official arrival in Andover for the holiday season.

At the conclusion of the parade Santa will return to the Central fire station where he will talk to the youngsters and distribute candy.

London Bus To Assist Shoppers

An authentic red London double decker bus, provided by Travel Anywhere, Inc. in conjunction with Pan American Airlines, will be taking part in Andover's Christmas Parade starting at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, Dec. 7.

Following the parade, the bus will be operating along Main Street until 4 p.m. The open top omnibus will give shoppers a free ride in comfort from store to store and the chance to enjoy the view of the Christmas hustle and bustle from the upper deck.

This particular omnibus arrived in Toronto in October 1967 and was purchased by the Boston firm of "British Promotions." The vehicle is the only open top London Transport RTL in the world. The open top bus was popular for over fifty years prior to World War II.

— IN PERSON!

Elander & Swanton's has the wonderful news for all children in Andover! Santa has written to us and says that he will come to our store for one of his rare personal appearances.

He's to be at our store to hear all of your Christmas wishes. Yes, he'll be here in person, sitting in our Main Street window for all to see on Friday nights and Saturdays! You'll be able to tell him yourself what it is you want for Christmas.

Santa said for us to ask you all to be here and to be sure you don't forget your wish-list.
